DR. SHERMAN'S TREATMENT.

Here sto the editorial remarks in the Stants Zeitung on Mr. F. Gerth and his statement:

"Mr. Gerth, a wealthy and respectable gentleman of Newark, N. J., sends us a communication setting forth his sufferings from a terrible case of rupture, and his final relief and restoration by Dr. J. A. Sherman, of

To the N. Y. Staats Zeitung: After having suffered many years from a bad ruptare, and exhausting all my patience and large amounts of money on many doctors of this city, New-York, and Brooklyn, and suffer, ing at their hands indescribable agony, I was compelled to abandon all opes of finding may one competent to relieve me, when fortunately, a and of mine took Dr. Sherman's advertisement out of your paper and inclosed it to me by letter. I showed it to my friends and several do-lors, who ridiculed the idea of Dr. Sherman being able to do anything for me, basing their conclusions no doubt upon their own inability to chine like the claws of a lobster, and sent me off with instructions not to move it. But on my way home I was in terrible agony, and on reach ing there was compelled to take my bed, and as the terment increased I was obliged, with assistance, to cut it off. If I had not done so I am sure I would have been killed in less than twenty-four hours, as inflammation

But, thank Heaven for the thoughtfulness of my friend and for my persistent faith in encouraging me to call on Dr. Sherman, contrary to persistent faith in encouraging me to can on Mr. Southan, on the advice of many of those phrainfans who had given me up, my joy is too great forme to express, for I feel like a man converging from purgatory to Heaven since I placed myself in the hands of this gentleman, whom I am compelled to declare the doctor of doctors, who has falklied Concy Islanid Road, will be opened to the public at noon to-day.

MARSH'S RADICAL CURE TRUSS.

In reply to Dr. S. Marsh's exposure of the paid Spy of Dr. Sherman, the detractor of every other member of his profession, we have to day a lengthy article in the highest Hedge in style. Be it distinctly known that Hedges is in the employ of and supported by sherman (we will style that Hedges is in the employ of and supported by sherman (we will style that "Dector" when he exhibits his diploma), in fact resides with him. iengiby article in the employ of and supported by Sherman the with thim. Doctor' when he exhibits his diploma), in fact realies with him, which explains the entire matter.

The age of Hodges is settled by affidavit. He is 21 years old. He was which explains the entire matter.

The age of Hodges is settled by affidavit. He is 21 years old. He was only 19 years old up to five seconds before the celebration of his wonly 19 years old up to five seconds before the celebration of his viewlifeth hirthday, so that after all there is but a trivial discrepancy in the boy's age between the statement of Dr. Marsh and the affidavit. On investigation, Dr. Marsh finds that Hodges did actually call twice at Dr. Marsh aaw him only once, when he measured him for a truss, not having one (swing to his permian size) suitable for him. This truss having one (swing to his permian size) suitable for him. This truss having one (swing to his permian size) suitable for him. This truss didering the large number of Dr. Marsh's patients and that he only saw Hodges in a recumbent position, it is pardomable if he should not recognize his photograph at the moment.

Hodges is simple the "dreadful example," the "decoy duck" of Sherman. This is the way the thing is done: He visits the Trussmakers in turn, just to be able to ewear that he had done so: then he goes to some well-known physician, and relates his woes. One physician recommends him here, another there, but he tells them all mournfully that he has tried all "those." Then he easually remarks that he has heard of come wenders performed by a Dr. Sherman. Eminent physician known suching about this person, but at length, lo get rid of his best east of the contribute. The "decoy" has bagged his game: forth he goes proclaiming this polite. The "decoy" has bagged his game: forth he goes proclaiming this polite.

about this person, but at length, to get rid of his persistent visitor, remarks, in effect, well, if you've tried them all, why, go to this Sherman—good morning."

The "decoy" has hagged his game; forth he goes proclaiming this polite hint to "go" as a direct hearty" Recommendation.

In addition, Sherman has men at the corners of streets who warlay passers by with circulars, and he has a man with a "gorgeous" show wagen, from which he distributes elaborate pulls (in the Hodgeian style) of his employer's sares. In fact, his entire proceeding is about similar to the traveling quacks of old, misuss the chap in spangles and the fish-horn. Sherman's dodge is, and has been for years, here and eleveshere, to gain notoriety at any samines of decemey or moner.

He lugs in a stirring demonstation of the Marsh. Trues from the pen of an anonymous writer. An anonymous writer ranks, in the minds of all worthy people, with the openine of private letters and the scamp who stole the penines from the dead man's eyes.

Then he sees an housest and must faverable indorsement of Dr. Marsh's Trues, and finding it better sailed to bits purposes than anything he could possibly cajole any one to give to him, he substitutes his awa game throughout for that of Dr. Marsh, and covers the theft by a chicaneer of very small type interlineation—decriving mans. Like the horse-blid who "conveyed" a white horse shained it bisck, and then elaimed it as his private property. Dr. Johnson sand that "whatever he the and this was a very duty Trick, Mr. Sherman. He then parades one by Jarvis, a Brookipilite, whose whereabouts we have in vain essayed to discover. Jarvis proclaims himself to be "The Happiest and Prondest Man in the City." He must have lived virtuously. "The Wickedeat Man in the City." But must have lived virtuously. "The Wickedeat Man in the City." But must have lived virtuously. "The Wickedeat Man in the City." He must have lived virtuously. "The Wickedeat Man in the City." He must have lived virtuously. "The wickedeat Man in the City."

even sublimar bins, he must "per figurers am away constituted that is the corollary.

N. B. Jarvis was very fischiab indeed to endure the suffering and ageny "aimest indescribable" of Marsh's Truns for Frourt Long Trans. Here show south he "endure" a tight pair of Boots!

Sherman, when he says that lir, Marsh attacked him first, well knows that his counting, malignost attempts to undermine the reputations of his professional brethren aroused the Indignation of Dr. Marsh, especially as he, the oldest member of the profession, was chiefe simed at; and all his occurred prior to the oppearence of The Scaipel article, which was written by Dr. Dixon, totally unsolected by Dr. Marsh. Dr. Dixon has never written one single line for Dr. Marsh in any newspaper or other publication.

paper or other publication.
Mr. Sherman is very fond of alluding to "incidents." "Incidents." essories of airectising, circulars, "dreadful example," his ne-tcher and carrier, Ku-Kluxian Rowe, and the "googeous" show on, then are you unescapably "in for" certainly $0, simply for a pinion," before you can emerge from his "web." After that, "bess be—pup. (Sherman allows the "pun and Newhordham" simile t fitting, proper, and truthful). If he accepts this (br. Marsh admit over choice) relativistic fluore at all, he must accept it as a whole, if so, why, logically (and naturally) it is evident who takes the ro-the "non."
